

"Theological Principles of Stewardship" by Rev. Dr. Joshua Brockway

This course begins with defining what we mean when we say we are disciples of Jesus and citizens of the Kingdom of God. This model of discipleship sets our way of life in the context of scripture and worship. From there, we will explore the scriptural and theological accounts of God's economy, thus putting our practices of stewardship within the frame of sufficiency. For God's creation and providence gives us all that we need, and from the surplus we can share with those who have a greater need.

Our commitment to follow Jesus transforms both how we understand the world and live within it.

Stewardship, then, is the constellation of our practices with time, talent, and treasure according to the principles of the Kingdom of God.

Course Fee: $49.95

Registration is open NOW!

Course Components

- Video-on-Demand Sessions
There are six audio-graphic lectures delivered via video streaming media.
- Class Readings
There are class readings from papers and recommended websites.
- Class Conference Calls
There are three scheduled class-wide conference calls for discussions among the whole class and the instructor.
- Interactive Learning Community
A Virtual Classroom is provided to host the online discussions of posted questions.

Participate in this course from anywhere with nothing more than a browser and a broadband Internet connection.

For complete information and to register online, please visit www.transformingthechurch.org.